S. R. Stratton, Who is in Office. Complain That All His Efforts to Get Others is Are of no Avail-Several Gentlemen Relate Similar Experiences-The Secretaries of the Navy and Treasury Especial Oblects of the Kickers' Wrath-At Officeholder's Telegram About Poor Foraker - Civil Service Regulations Cause Anything But Joy-No Remedy Suggested for the Condition of Affairs.

A meeting of about 75 members of different Republican State associations in Washington held a lively meeting last night. There were several speeches, in which severe words were freely used. Although the sentiment was universal that more offices should be given to Republicans, no plan was presented by which they could be secured.

ISPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE DISPATCE.] WASHINGTON, August 29 .- The Republican kickers met to-night in Grand Army Hall and didn't go home till morning. The growling at the Harrison administration had hitherto been confined to the hotel lobbies and the sidewalks. Now it was heard in a chorus in open meeting, where everybody could hear. S. R. Stratton, President of the Pennsylvania Republican Association of the District, presided over the meeting of the 75 members of all the Republican State associations in town, which the Cleveland administration did not take the lite out of, or the civil service reform law has not put to sleep. He is a new Federal officeholder, with a place in the treasury. He has tried to do favors for his friends at the court of Secretary Windom and has always been snubbed for his pains. So he talks out. He dismissed the meeting with the observation that a barking dog is better than a sleeping lion. The kickers were not disappointed at the small size of the gathering, but insist that there are 150 tried and true Republicans yet left in the departments who all iot afraid to fight the thing to the # 1. Mr. Stratton made many obs in his speech. These were some

HIS EFFORTS ABORTIVE.

The best test in our standing politically is shown in our ability to get places for the unempioyed in this association in the public service. For myself I can say that my efforts on behalf of members were never before so abortive as they have been during the last two or three months. The Civil Service bugbear confronts us on the one hand and the manifest indifference and haughtiness with which we are received on the other. To use a homely expression, it puts us between the devil and the deep sea I have become discouraged. Our hearts will not be filled until every available official place at the disposal of the appointing power of the Government is filled with true and tried Republicans. The fault I have to find with our party management is that it is entirely too ready to accept as evidences of true affection the olive branches, Iscariot kisses and other peace and thank offerings tendered to it by the wily old Democratic serpent. Then Mr. Stratton submitted a few political proverbs, thus: Never trust a political snake, dead or alive.

or like a gun, it is dangerous without lock, stock or barrel. Never put clubs into the hands of your enemies with which to beat out your brains, if you have any. Favors and conciliatory offerings to late political adversaries are evidences of cowardice and a weak spinal vertebra. Make peace only with such ele-ments as will help your party, no odds by what name they are called, or what badge they wear. Forgiveness of party enemies and alienation of party friends is not a good way to secure the retention of party supremacy. Beware of false prophets and wolves in sheep's clothing. An inside traitor is worse than a hundred oper enemies. Delays are dangerous, In politics choose between the two parties. Let one be your political enemy, the other your friend. If you try to please both you will offend both.

"The reason why I have referred to our party machinery," continued Mr. Stratton, "is be-cause I am constantly reminded that we have met the enemy and we are theirs; that the still sow drinks the official swill, and that this pork is tat enough to kill, and that it ought to be disposed of while the official knife is sharp and the water hot. We see the civil service anaconda surely coiling itself around the appointing power of the Gov-ernment, so as to leave the President almost powerless to select a member of his own Cabi-net. We see 'No Vacancies' posted very conspicuously over the department buildings. They don't, but they ought to, see this sign, not only over the door of the White House, but at the entrance of every department, viz: 'In hoc signo vinces,' he that is not for us is Captain Cunningham said that of the 150 members of the Washington police force not 20 were Republicans.

J. S. Stephenson, Secretary of the New York Republican Association, said that the Republicans in office are doing the party more injury than the straight-out Democrats. He believed in "ousting" nine-tenths of them. He added that there were perhaps 600 New Yorkers in office in Washington; 300 were probably Republicans. He had sent circulars to all of them last fall, asking for contributions to the Harrison and Morton fund. Only ten had replied. Not 150 of all the 600 had gone to New York to vote, and most of those who did were Democrats.

WENT ONE BETTER.

James McKee, President of the Maryland Republican Association, went Mr. Stephenson one better. He said that he had sent campaign circulars to 385 Maryland Republicans who all stayed in through the Cleveland administration, and had received a contribution from just one. Secretary Dumble, of the Ohio association, had noticed that dozens of Republican office holders offered as an excuse for not joining the State associations the supported fact that the civil service law prevented them. Others of those present made statements quite as startling. One wanted to know what could be done with an administration that promoted one batch of 17 clerks in the Navy Department, of which 16 were Democrats and only one a Republican, and the son-in-law of a United States Senator. Another had heard of a clerk in the Navy Department who had been here for years with an autograph letter from General Grant for his backing, who had been cut down from $1,800 to $1,200 by Secretary Whitney, and who couldn't for the life of him get the Republican Secretary to put Another kicker thought Secretary Windom "had a nerve to sit up there" in the Treasury and say that there were as many Republicans as Democrats in his department, and that was the most he cared for, and wondered whether even the President would have dared to select him for the second Cabinet post if he had known these to be his expressed sentiments.

AN IRRITATING INCIDENT.

One of the most irritating incidents of the meeting came to the notice of only a few. It was the story of a dispatch sent from the Democratic Convention hall in Dayton, O., to H. F. J. Drake, a Democratic foreman in the Government Printing Office. It was from E. W. Hearne, of Ohio, and the first news of the result. It said:

Campbell nominated. Poor Foraker. Drake was much pleased with it. He was the editor of a Democratio paper in New Jersey for 20 years and 6 years a lob-byist at Trenton: In the investigation of last winter his testimony was some of the best in support of Mr. Benediet and some of the worst against Mr. Rounds. But that was not the only thing that angered the Republican kickers. Hearne they accuse of being a turncoat Republican who boasts that no amount of Republican it fluence can get him away from his case in the job room of the Government printing office. He took his leave at this time in order to go to the Ohio State Convention to work for Campbell. Two years ago Hearne sent a dispatch-from Columbus to a friend in Washington. It closed with the words

"Poor Foraker," just as to-day's did. This Ohlo incident caused still another of the kickers to say that it had been stated, and he believed it, that Second Assistant Postmaster General Whitfield, Chief Inspector Rathbone, of the Postoffice Department; General Henry V. Boynton, of the Cincinnati Commercial-Gazette, and Colonel Clark Montgomery, a cousin of Mrs. Har-rison, all of Cincinnati, would everyone go home to vote and scratch the name of the head of the Republican ticket. In the midst of this great anti-Harrison hullaballo Perry Carson, the local boss of the colored Republicans, is gunning for the District Commissioner. He says:

The President promised us that when he ap-pointed new Commissioners they would be men who would see that the Republicans did not suffer. But what has been done for us since their appointment? Nothing. Now I tell you, that when we turn loose on the Commissioners we will startle the world. They have made only one discharge. We propose to find out why others should not go.

NEW YORK APPOINTMENTS. The New York City appointments, according to expectation did not come out today, but it is understood that the commissions have been shaken up and shuffled again, and that possibly a prize for Lion and a blank for Jacobus may be drawn to-morrow General James M Warner appointed postmaster at Albany to-day, was the choice of Senator Hiscock, Thomas C. Platt, and Dr. Warner Miller, and is fairly acceptable to the people and the politicians of Albany. There was a fight over the Surveyorship of the port of Albany, and the two factions were in danger of sending each a delegation to the State Conven-tion. The delay in the appointment of John W. Bailey, which was announced to-day, was necessary in order that certain of the supposed irreconcilables might be brought in barmony with the idea of the State makers. Mr. Bailey is an ex-Congressman and an ex-Consul to Hamburg.

SOUTH AMERICAN TRADE.

Ex-Senator Davis Gives His Views on th Result of the Approaching Congress -The Reasons Aunounced for Mr. Flint's Nomination.

DEER PARK, August 29 .- Ex-Senate Henry G. Davis, who was to-day appointed a delegate to the Congress of American Nations, was seen by a reporter. He thinks it would be bad taste in him, when not yet officially informed of his appointment, to say whether he will serve or not. Mr. Davis has always, as shown by his vote in the Senate, believed that the United States could well afford to be quite liberal in any movement which would divert to the United States more of the South American trade. Now the balance of trade is hopelessly against us in a ratio of about 4 to 1. He thinks that rough cotton goods, provisions, manufactured stuffs, agricultural imple-ments and high class mechanical devices ments and high class mechanical devices used in the arts, South America should get from us, and that our commodities, instead of going to England to be reshipped to our sister continent, should go direct.

The $125,000 appropriation of Congress will be spent in showing the visiting delegates our reconverse and this the art Secretary gates our resources, and this the ex-Senator believes will be conducive to good results He intends making a thorough study of all matters pertaining to the interests in this convention, hence it would seem likely that he will accept.

The appointment of Mr. Davis is partly due to the President's knowledge of his United States should pursue.

Mr. Charles R. Flint, also appointed a delegate, ia, like ex-Senator Davis, a Deme delegate, is, like ex-Senator Davis, a Demo-crat. Besides being a prominent merchant, he is thoroughly conversant with the Span-ish language. His knowledge of Spanish will be useful in the coming convention, and this was one of the reasons for his ap-pointment. As It now stands the United States will be represented by four Democrats and six Republicans.

POOL ROOMS BY PROXY.

The Successful New York Scheme to be Tried in Chicago.

CHICAGO, August 29 .- George Smith who attempted to reopen one of the many pool rooms closed some time age in this city, was arrested this evening, and, it is said, will make the same sort of fight in the courts as was recently made in New York in which the pool room men won. The claim will be made that no money is bet on the horses here, but that it is simply held by the local pool men to guarantee the payment of a bet made by wire at the race courses in the

NOT A MURDERESS.

Mrs. Hamilton's Victim Expected to Recover -Her Release on Ball Will be Asked for and Probably Allowed-The Plan of Defense.

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., August 29. The impression that Mrs. Robert Ray Ham-ilton will not be severely punished for her assault on her nurse, Mary Ann Donnelly, grows stronger every day. Her release on bail will be the first step. Noll cottage, where the stabbing occurred and where the injured woman is still lying, is watched day and night by a constab and no one is allowed to enter. Word is sent out to everybody who inquires about Mrs. Donnelly that she is much better and that her recovery now is only a question of a very short time. Dr. Crosby said to-day that he had been asked already to give a certificate that the woman would recover. He thought she would, he said, but he had He thought she would, he said, but he had decided to go slow, and to give no such certificate that the woman would recover. He may grant such a certificate this morning. If he does, a motion will at once be made for the release of Mrs. Hamilton on bail, and that bail will be accepted is certain. The amount of bail will probably not exceed $2,000, and as there will not be the slightest difficulty in furnishing it the descent slightest difficulty in furnishing it, the des-perate woman who is now in Sheriff Johnperate woman who is now in Sheriff Johnson's custody at May's Landing will doubtless be a free woman by to-morrow night.

If Mrs. Donnelly recovers and insists upon prosecuting Mrs. Hamilton, the gravest charge she can make against her is felonious assault, which is known in the criminal laws of New Jersey as "atrocious assault." If tried and found guilty Mrs. Hamilton can be fined or imprisoned, or both, as the Presiding Judge pleases.

If the charge embraces an intent to kill, of course the penalty is heavier. The deof course the penalty is heavier. The defense will try to make it appear that there was no quarrel at all between Mrs. Hamilton and Mrs. Donnelly previous to the stabton and Mrs. Donnelly previous to the stab-bing. Aroused by the woman's taunts and by her husband's indifference, Mrs. Hamil-ton grabbed the dagger from the bed and slashed at her husband with it. The blow cut a gash in his clothing, and she raised her arm for another blow when Mrs. Don-nelly thrust her back. Mrs. Hamilton called Mrs. Donnelly a vile name. The latter ran at her and ran on the dagger, which Mrs. Hamilton was only holding with the point extended from her person.

Henry Rosenburg's Son Kldnaped in the Streets of Chicago.

EPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE DISPATCH. CHICAGO, August 29 .- Henry Rosen burg, a peddler of the Westside, accompanied by his two sons, aged 10 and 5 years, stopped his wagon this morning at Clark and South Water streets, before the store and South Water streets, before the store where he usually does his trading and went in to make his purchases, leaving the two boys in the wagon. He stepped outside a moment later to know the meaning of the cries of the son. The little fellow was crying bitterly, but between his sobs managed to say that his brother had been grabbed off the seat and carried away. The man who stole the child was dressed like a laborer, but he did his work so quickly that no one was able to give any further description of him.

Rosenburg ran crazily about in the street crowded with market wagons, but although he searched in every conceivable place he found no trace of his missing son. After continuing his vain search for a short while he ran to the Central police station and told his story. He demanded of the police that they find his child immediately, but was so much excited that the description he gave would not be sufficient to identify the boy.

MURDER AND MOONSHINING

ell is Acquitted of the Former, But Held on the Latter Charge.

JACKSONVILLE, FLA., August 29 .- Two days ago John M. Brownell, who killed Deputy United States Marshal Weller in Holmes county, was brought to this city by United States officials. He had been discharged by the State authorities under a plea of justifiable homicide. This second arrest was made on a charge of resisting United States officers in the discharge of their duties. A hearing was heard before Comer Walter and has been in progress for two days.

Nothing new was elicited and Brownell was discharged from custody this afternoon As he was about to leave the courtroom the original warrant for moonshining was served on him. The Commissioner placed him under $2,500 bond. He will be allowed to go to Holmes county in the custody of a officer to secure bail.

HE WANTS NO EXTRA SESSION

Major Mc Kinley Has a Conference With the President on the Subject.

DEER PARK, MD., August 29 .- Hon William McKinley, Jr. of Ohio, was much of the day with the President, and with him discussed Ohio politics and the advisability of convening Congress in extra session. The Major thinks an extra session inadvisable and that Congress could not be well assembled, after hearing from the four new States, before November 1, and then there would be but four working weeks, and that if by the death of Republicant or the plants. death of Republicans or the election of new members the majority be with the Demo-crats, the President would in calling an extra session, assume the responsibility for their actions, while this would not be the case in regular session. Mr. McKinley returned home this evening.

Complete Confidence in His Integrity is Expressed

Wording. THE LYON MONUMENT FUND REPORT.

Will Be Asked for Assistan Officers Completed

The National Encampment of the Grand Army yesterday passed a resolution ex-pressing full confidence in the integrity of Pension Commissioner Tanner despite the attacks of partisan newspapers. There was considerable discussion over the wording of the resolution. General Alger made the report of the Lyon monument fund, and Congress will be asked for assistance. The election of officers was completed.

PERCIAL TELEGRAM TO THE DISPATCH. MILWAUKEE, WIS., August 29 .- Pensions and Corporal Tanner were the chief features of the National Encampment today. For over two hours the battle raged fast and furious over a resolution indorsing Tanner. Congressman Perkins, of Kansas, introduced a resolution thanking President Harrison for appointing Tunner, and indorsing the Corporal from the ground up. General Barnum, of New York, brought in substitute, declaring a belief in Tanner's integrity, despite the assaults of the press, and expressing a belief that he had done all he could under the law. The fight was hot and heavy, nearly 50 speeches being made. Mr. Campbell, of Kansas, disagreed with General Barnum in his ideas as to the proper wording of the resolution and said:

A PRACTICAL DEMONSTRATION. "Don't take a hasty vote. We can afford to question and settle it right. For 15 years we have been declaring, and others have been uttering, a sentiment that the country can never pay the debt due to the old soldiers, but Corporal Tanner is the first officer that has made poral Tanner is the first officer that has made that sentiment upon a practical reality. I believe it is the high duty of this encampment to sustain him in working out that sentiment. If the Grand Army of the Republic ever had a duty to perform, looking neither to the right nor to the left, to the committee that is investigating the workings of the Pension Bureau, or to the Commissioner himself, it is now, and we ought to pass this resolution. The substitute differs with it in only one particular. It expresses a belief in the futegrity of Comrade Tanner, and would not influence the action of the committee charged with the investigation. It may be better than an indorsement like that offered in the original resolution, but we should make our indorsement strong enough. The original resolution but we should make our indorsement strong enough. The original resolution expresses our sentiments exactly. The presumption of law is that every man is innocent until he is proved guilty, and as far as I am concerned I will make that presumption go to the fullest extent in this case."

A delegate from Minnesota said he would A delegate from Minnesota said he would no more dare to go back to the soldiers of his State after harming a hair of Tanner's head than to ride through a band of Sioux Indians with their warpaint on. He urged the encampment to stand up to the rack, and say that the G. A. R. will stand by Tanner till something wrong is clearly proved against him.

"Who knows anything about his administration of the Pension Bureau!" he asked: "It is not his enemies but his friends that are investigating him. We should not try to force the administration to suspend this investigation. I was in Washington last week and I heard it charged upon the streets and everywhere else that men employed in the bureau were all getting their cases made special and taken up immediately, and rerated much higher, while the poor devils of the rauk and file have to stand back and walt. I told them that it was a lie, but if he has done that and we pass the original resolution we indorse such action on his part. It we pass the original resolution and the committee of investigation should exonerate him, the opposition press would say that the administration dare not oppose the G. A. R., and they would have good reason to say it.

After two hours' speechifying an adjournment was had to 3 o'clock. Mr. Barnum then redrafted his resolution as follows:
Resolved, That we heartly thank President Harrison for his appointment of our comrade, James Tanner, as Commissioner of Pensions; and notwithstanding the assaults of the press upon him, we declare our complete confidence in his integrity and approve his endeavor to do all that can be done according to the law for the veterans of the war, and ask in connection with him the fullest investigation of his administration of the Pension Bureau.

ELECTION OF OFFICERS COMPLETED. At the morning session the election of officers for the ensuing year was completed. Dr. Horace P. Porter, of Kansas, was chosen Surgeon General, W. H. Childers, of Kentucky, Chaplain, and T. J. Lovett, of New Jersey, Junior Vice Commander. The encampment refused to recognize the Sons of Veterans as an auxiliary to the G A. R., because of a disturbing faction in the former. Instead of giving the two women's organizations, the Loyal Ladies of the G. A. R. and the Woman's Relief Corps, formal indorsement, which would be contrary to the rules, it was recommended that the encampment bid them God speed

The question was put, "Will you accept the nomination in the event of its being tendered you?"

"I never cross a bridge till I come to it," said Mr. Bigler, but his actions and manners were sufficient to satisfy an ordinary observer that he is perfectly content with the situation, and is willing to trust the question of his nomination entirely to his friends. He also pleasantly referred to the fact of there being opposition to his nomination from Allegheny county, and said that he was pleased that the Pittsburg Democrats had spoken so kindly of his adminiscrats had spoken so kindly of his adminis-tration of the duties of the office of Collector of Internal Revenue at Pittsburg.

"I will not go there as a candidate, but will be pleased to meet my triends from the several sections of the State," was his final remark.

Mayor Fitler to-day reiterated his declaration in favor of the nomination of Adjutant General Hastings for Governor, and said: "I would like to see the leaders of the party in Philadelphia unite in sending a full delegation from this city to the State Convention in favor of the nomination of General Hastings." Mayor Fitler is very anxious for harmony among the leaders on this subject, and did not hesitate to give vigorous expression to his opinion. He also orous expression to his opinion. He also spoke of Mr. McManes, with whom he was supposed to have strained relations, and said he would like to unite with Mr. Mcplacarded upon his country residence at this place to-day and it would not in the least belie the feeling of the noble man

SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE DISPATCH.

HALIFAX, N. S., August 29 .- At 5 o'clock on Saturday morning last about 2,000 persons witnessed the beheading of Nael, the murderer, in a public square at St. Pierre, Miquelon. At 3 in the morning the doomed man was awakened and told to prepare for death. His reply was: "It is just as well to do it now as any other time, as I have been sentenced to death." A few minutes later he received a priest in the jail, confessed and made ready for death. Then a straight jacket was put on, and his hands were tied behind his back. After this a wagon took him from the jail to the Court House, where he confessed to the Judges, saying that liquor caused him to commit the murder. From the Court House he was taken to a public square, where he was beheaded. He kissed the priest six times before he walked to the platform.

It was a chum of Nael who was to drop the knife. When Nael saw him, he asked: "Is it you who are going to kill me?"

The executioner said that it was.

"If you would kill me, you would kill others," Nael replied.

Then turning to the crowd, he said: "Dear friends, my name is Nael. I am the first man killed this way in St. Pierre. I am sorry for what I have done, and I hope in St. Pierre no execution like this will ever happen again. May God protect you all."

He turned around and examined the guillotine from top to bottom. He was then laid on his face on a plank and lashed to it. The plank was pushed into place under the knife. Neal then said to the executioner: "Do not make a botch of the job." In less than a minute Nael said he was ready. The executioner touched a spring, and the triangular knife fell, but it did not do the deadly work well, as the head was not com-pletely severed. The executioner with a large knife finished the work. It was 5:05 o'clock when the knife fell. Nael was wonderfully cool throughout the trying ordeal. He made no effort to escape and when he spoke not a quiver in his voice was noticed.

Captain Cooke has several times in the Police News expressed his opinion of Sullivan's carousals. Black with anger, Sullivan proceeded to tell Captain Cooke what he thought of him, at the same time shaking his fist under the Captain's nose. Captain Cooke knew he was not large enough to handle Sullivan, and made no reply. Sullivan was finally leds away by Mr. James S. Ormond, who has great influence over the fighter. He induced John L., drunk though he was, to stop drinking and return to his carriage without making any more trouble. After driving around for awhile Sullivan remembered that he owed the Board of Police a grudge and directed the driver to take him to police headquarters. Clerk Ryan, seeing that Sullivan was in an ugly mood, induced him to go away on the plea that the commissioners were busy. ordered missioners were busy.
